

Announcement
National Institute of Development Administration
Subject: No Gift Policy for Fiscal Year 2025

At the National Institute of Development Administration (NIDA), we are dedicated to nurturing knowledgeable, principled, and socially responsible development administrators committed to serving our society and nation.

Integrity is at the heart of NIDA's mission and values, embraced by all our members—administrators, academic staff, support staff, and students. To further this commitment, we are implementing a “No Gift Policy.” This initiative is designed to foster a culture of generosity and service over one of receiving, reinforcing NIDA's role as a model of good governance contributing positively to society.

As a member of the administrative team, I wholeheartedly support the adoption of this policy for the fiscal year 2025 and beyond. At NIDA, we believe it is vital for all staff to refrain from accepting gifts or favors that may compromise our professional responsibilities, both in the course of our duties and afterwards. Together, we can cultivate an environment of integrity, ethical behavior, and positive attitudes, helping to combat corruption and misconduct, while promoting honesty and transparency throughout our community.

We appreciate your acknowledgment of this announcement and your commitment to adhering to the “No Gift Policy.”

Announced on 28 January 2025

A handwritten signature in blue ink, reading "T. Lorsuwanarat".

(Professor Tippawan Lorsuwanarat, Ph.D.)
President of the National Institute of Development Administration